Subject: Haystack allottees consent

Hi James,

I left you a message earlier today, but email may be easier for you.

Thank you for providing the list of allottees for a Haystack abandoned uranium mine site. We will be contacting the allottees and wonder if there are companies we can hire to visit residents to request their consent. My colleague Mark Ripperda is aware of Juan Betoni from Bit'aa'nii Land Consulting. In the Navajo Business list, we see that Sheep Camp Archeological Services does land status and access permits. Are you familiar with these companies? Are there other companies you are aware of?

Cleanup of the mine site in Haystack will be conducted in at least two phases. In the short term, we will be consolidating waste that is migrating off the mine site and putting it in a temporary internment on the mine site. In a later phase, we will complete cleanup of the entire mine site. Ultimate disposal of the waste will be determined with the guidance of the new Navajo Uranium Commission, and may include removal of all waste to a centralized or regional repository, or disposal on-site.

We have the BIA template for Consent to Access Property. For the work that we'll be doing, is there a different BIA template?

Much appreciated!

Linda
